

Tessa Auberjonois, Bo Foxworth, Rob Nagle Set for Antaeus Company's Macbeth

By David Gordon • Jun 6, 2012 • Los Angeles

Casting has been announced for Antaeus Company's production of William Shakespeare's Macbeth, will run July 12-August 26. Jessica Kubzansky directs the production, which features two alternating casts.

Bo Foxworth and Rob Nagle will each play the title role, with Tessa Auberjonois and Ann Noble as Lady Macbeth.

The 40-member company also includes Armin Shimerman and John Sloanpartnering as Ross; Ned Schmidtke and Peter Van Norden as King Duncan; Daniel Blinkoff and James Sutorius as Macduff; Steve Hofvendahl and Todd Waring as the Scottish Doctor; Brian Tichnell and Christian Barillas as Malcolm; Ramon De Ocampo and Joe Holt as Banquo; Kimiko Gelman and Kitty Swink as Lady Macduff; Dylan La Rocque and Jack Lancaster as Fleance; Joe Delafield and Jeff Thomas Gardner as Lennox; Alex Knox and Jesse Sharp as Angus; Fran Bennett and Lorna Raver as the first witch; Jane Carr and Susan Boyd Joyce as the second witch; Sandra McClain and Elizabeth Swain as the third witch; Joanna Strapp and Rebekah Tripp as the Gentlewoman and the Nurse; Brian Abraham and Adam Meyer as the first murderer; Daniel Dorr and Sam Breen as the second murderer; Paul Culos and Ian Littleworth as Donalbain; and Gerard Marzilli and Jason Thomas as Menteith.

The design team includes Tom Buderwitz (scenic design), Jessica Olson (costume design), Jeremy Pivnick (lighting design), and John Zalewski (sound design).

For more information and tickets to Macbeth, click here.