

Some of the Best Things to Do in L.A. This Weekend

 lamag.com/culturefiles/things-to-do-in-l-a-this-weekend-2

June 17, 2021

Juneteenth celebrations, Father's Day brunches, and more

By

Gwynedd Stuart

-

It's official: after 15 months, Los Angeles is open—and that means there's fun stuff to do all across the city. Still not ready for in-person partying? That's cool. We've sprinkled in some virtual events too.

An Octoroon at Fountain Theatre

Opens Friday, June 18 (through Sept. 19)

Branden Jacobs-Jenkins's Obie Award-winning play makes its Los Angeles debut on the new outdoor stage at Fountain Theatre this weekend. A riff on the 1859 play The Octoroon, An Octoroon was hailed by the New York Times as “a work based on a terminally dated play from more than 150 years ago may turn out to be this decade's most eloquent theatrical statement on race in America today.” [More info and tickets]