Based on the fascinating real life connection between the modern day scientist Dr. Anne Adams and world famous composer Maurice Ravel, UnRavelled is an essential new play by Jake Broder about love, art, science and who we are on the most profound level.

A uniquely configured presentation for the streaming environment, the work combines stunning visuals with flights of fancy, bouts of obsession, poetic epiphany, the cosmic mathematics of classical music, and the infinitely possible pleasures and terrors of the unfettered imagination.

Available on demand through April 30; free; UnRavelledPlay.com (<http://www.unravelledplay.com>).
